

Clean Compassion

Creating jobs Offering hope Saving our environment

Welcome,

Clean Compassion is a non profit that was started after the 2010 devastating earthquake in Haiti. After returning from the earthquake we had such a heavy burden on how we could help, not only the people in Haiti, but all over the world. We learned that over 25% of the world does not have access to electricity and over 35% of the world is living on less than $2 a day. We believe the solutions to these problems are simple business skills and opportunities to provide and earn a living with solar products. Clean Compassion's goal is to provide basic business training, financing and startup products using environmentally friendly products. Training, education and business skills will last beyond a lifetime. We are providing a hand up, not a hand out. Please join us in helping the less fortunate of the world by creating jobs, providing hope and saving our environment.

Our solar light in Cambodia

Our Program Small business creation

Our Projects are focused on creating jobs, saving the consumer money, and benefiting the environment. We provide business training for people in developing nations, such as Haiti, Liberia and Cambodia. In addition to education, we also assist with startup costs and initial inventory. We are focusing our efforts on environmentally friendly products like solar lights and solar home electrification.

Currently we have active projects in Liberia, Haiti and Cambodia. We have both women and men as team members and solar entrepreneurs.

Training, education and business skills will last a lifetime. A handout only lasts as long as someone is there to hand it out. People in developing nations, like Haiti, have barely survived on handouts for generations. What people really need are business skills and an opportunity to earn a living.
